- London, 30th May. shot. The Hotel de Ville, the Louvre and the Tuilleries have been burnt

It will be noticed that the last part of the ed on Thursday; but it appears that the French Bank has escaped, while in addition to the Tuileries, the Louvre and Hotel de went up the hill and found a Chinaman rub Ville have fullen.

A very great deal of pains were taken by the noted on the official minutes that Mr. Moonsom was unable to carry out the roofing of look-out. After this he found a Chinaman-Government House; and as this amiable under a lamp post, and saw blood on his hands. officiousness in recording what appeared to more staid and experienced members of the Council, ultimately successful, it is only right that the true merits of the matter should be set forth. It is very easy to understand that Mr. Moonsom, as would be the case with any to be harrassed by combinations among the Chinese contractors: and this is likely to be the case in an aggravated form if the Chinese have an idea that there is another office in Hongkong at which complaints as to the other, and the second prisoner said to the manner in which he exercises his discretion in the selection of tenders are likely to be listened to. This certainly appeared to be the case from some remarks which were made at the meeting of the Council on the 3rd May; and, if it is the fact that there has attack began. The witness identified his bloodbeen any interference, either direct or indirect. of this nature, the difficulty of the Surveyoreasily enough understood. Why such a very great point should be made of the matter it is quite impossible to understand. It has often enough happened before that am estimate has been made which has proved under the mark; and it is quite conceivable that any one may make an error in calculation, and this is the sum total of the shortcoming on the part of the Surveyor-General. -not very surprising considering the frequency with which Chinese combine, and their likelihood to do so with respect to so tempting a job as roofing Government House. One point which was brought up in the course of the discussion—which seemed to be more a personal affair than mything else-was the being able to pay with sufficient promptitude to induce Chinese confractors to take Government work at the same rates as ordinary work. This is decidedly characteristic of Hongkong muddling, and the sconer an end is put to it the better. Surely the credit of the Colony does not stand so low that the necessary funds in such cases could not be obtained from the Banks; and it would be far cheaper to pay interest in the regular way at current rates than to do so in the form of exorbitant demands on the part of the Contractors. But this probably is too abstruse a calculation for the Hongkong Executive

Passing, however, from this portion of the blown out subject, it may be well to suggest that the system of inviting tenders at present resorted to is open to objection; and that it | would be very desirable that the whole matter should be reconsidered. In the majority of instances the tendering is a mere farce, as must of necessity be the case when it is only in the hands of Chinese contractors. Everybody knows that in matters of this kind Chinese combine instead of competing. Nothing, therefore, can be more unreasonable than to adhere to a system which can only be of use where the former mode of doing business is in vogue. As to the idea that the Suzveyortails of every individual work, as was sugportion of the works in the hands of local architects; and we suspect 'if this plan were adopted that the tendency to combine against lagainst whom nothing was known. the Government would be less; as the Chinese contractors could never be sure that a foreign architect would not find means of allowed. The pribody else in his position, is extremely likely soner was then taken to where the wounded man was lying. Mr. Blackwood afterwards returned to the gulley, where he found a bundkerchief, which was identified by Eman Bur. Another circumstance might be mentioned, and that was that when the two prisoners were brought together in custody they spoke to each > other: "You struck him and I am caught." Eman Bux was then called, and gave evidence as to the robbery. He identified both the pri soners, but in the reverse order of that in which he had identified them at the Magistracy. He mentioned that on meeting the second the first prisoner spoke to him, whereupon the stained elethes preduced in Court.

The Attorney-General said he did not rely on this man's evidence as to identity, because lect much more than the unquestionable fact that he had been robbed and wounded. Carreen Bux then stated that on coming up he saw the prisoners making off, the one along the road, the other up the hill, and afterwards caught the latter as related by the Attorney General. When the prisoners were brough together, the second and to the first, " Nee too tah," "You struck him also;" and the first redied in the eause words.-

Mr. Blackwood's evidence was then taken. The blood he saw at first about the first prisonr was on the back of his wrist, and there were no other marks of blood upon him. The guley: was apparently a water-course, but was now lry. The mark on the wrist was not visible fter the struggle. CÓMMISSION. (To the Editor of the "Times.") Sir,—I welcome your article of Monday upon the Joint High Commission, and I am sure it will be welcomed by that great gart of the American people who have hoped for the best results from the conference at Washington. There are however, one or two considerations, which, from an American point of view, I trust you will deem worthy of attention.

There is a prevailing American sentiment that the settlement of the Alabama question is so much the affair of England that any reasonable proposition from the Washington Cabinet must of necessity be friendly and peaceful. It does not seem to be sufficiently remembered in England that America has a few active and influential public men who hold that an open issue with your Government is a necessary element in American politics. They feel that the best way to settle the "Alabama Claims" is to leave tuem unsettled. They contend that the precedent which was created either by the law of England or the administration of its Govern. ment is so dengerous that its existence alone is a menace to your naval power. They reason that if in any way, lawfully or unlawfully, it was possible for Admiral Semmes to buy war-ships at Birkenhead, it would be just as possible, lawfully or unlawfully, for the enterprising Admiral of any Power that obsaced to be at war. with England to buy ships at New York or San Francisco and attack your commerce. When it is further considered that America bas shipbuilding ports on the two great oceans, it is argued that the Alabama precedent adds largely to the difficulties which war imposes upon any country, and that, in your case especially. America would be practically in perpetual alliance with any maritime Power that chose to attack your flag.

This is naturally beightened by the reflection that American commerce has, in fact, been contend—and I will not purse to challenge the lineaux was of great importance, as the mus. thousands of lives and thousands of mullions of and is the thought, that this commerce was destroyed by English ships and English guns the was at peace. Anvi.—Berkeley, Sept. 1869.—Gentlemen, I feel it a duty I owe to you to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have derived by taking Norton's Camomile Pilla. I applied to your agent, Mr. Sell, Berkeley, for the above-named Pills, for wind in the stomash, from which I suffered exemplating pain for a length of time, having tried hearly every remedy prescribed, but without deriving any benefit at all. After the line two bottles of your valuable wills. I was quite restored to my jump state your valuable pills I was quite restored to my usual state of health. Please give this publicity for the benefit of those who may thus be afflicted.—I am, Sir, yours truly, "HERET ALLPISS.—To the Proprietors of NORPON'S CA-A261327 Feb. 19 MORKLE PILLS."

Warson, CLEAVE & Co., Shanghai, in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature, Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accente being carefully marked onthe best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which ave heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a refurence to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate efectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted.
